What are the trends in feelings about climate change?

Familiarity with Climate Change: Familiarity with climate change remains high and steady with nearly 9-in-10 (87%) being familiar with it

How familiar are you with the concept of climate change?
[asked of all respondents; n=2,000]

% Familiar
(Detailed + General Understanding)

- You have a detailed understanding of climate change
- You have a general understanding of climate change but don't know the details
- You have heard of climate change but don't know much about it
- You haven't heard of climate change before this survey

NOTE: Prior to 2010, the term "global warming" was used in place of "climate change".

Belief in Climate Change: Belief in climate change remains steady with nearly 2-in-3 (63%) saying 'climate change is definitely occurring'

Thinking about your own personal view, do you believe that...
[asked of all respondents; n=2,000]

% At least probably occurring

■ Climate change is definitely occurring    
 ■ Climate change is probably occurring    
 ■ Climate change is probably not occurring
■ Climate change is definitely not occurring

NOTE: 'Extremely concerned' was recently added in March 2022.

Proof of Climate Change: Net agreement that unusual weather is proof of climate change is down 6 points from 42% to 36%

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement?

I have personally experienced unusual weather that I feel is clear proof of climate change

[asked of all respondents; n=2,000]

Support for Carbon Tax: Since 2008, the level of support for carbon tax has remained steady with a marginal decrease of 3 points

Do you support or oppose the idea of a carbon tax?
[asked of all respondents; n=2,000]

People are conflicted about the energy transition

Exploring Energy Transition Attitudes

For most people, the issue of an energy transition away from fossil fuels is complex. Some Canadians agree with positions from both sides of the debate. In this survey, we asked respondents to agree or disagree with three oil-friendly statements and three transition-friendly statements.

Pro-Oil Statements	Pro-Transition Statements
It is critical to Canada's ongoing prosperity that we responsibly develop and export our oil and gas resources.	Fossil fuels should be phased out as quickly as possible to speed up the shift to a lower-carbon future even if it means job losses or paying more for energy.
Canada is one of the most responsible countries in the world when it comes to how we develop and export our oil and gas resources.	The world is facing a climate emergency and it is irresponsible of Canada to add to the problem by developing new oil and gas projects.
It makes no sense to leave Canada's oil and gas in the ground because if Canada doesn't meet the global demand, another country will.	Because of the low price of oil, it doesn't make any sense to continue investing in oil and gas in Canada.

We then grouped respondents based on whether they tended to hold more pro-oil views, more pro-transition views, a mix of views or whether they were generally on the fence.

Key Attitudes: A majority agree that it is critical for Canada's prosperity to responsibly develop oil and gas resources

To fully understand Canadians' attitudes towards oil/gas developments, we ask respondents to react to a series of agree and disagree statements on energy transition from a wide range of perspectives. Based on their responses, we then group respondents who share similar attitudes into groups for further analysis. (September 2022)

Do you agree or disagree with the following statements?
[asked of all respondents; n=1,500]

Pro-oil statements
Pro-transition statements

- Strongly agree
- Somewhat agree
- Neither agree nor disagree
- Somewhat disagree
- Strongly disagree
- Don't know

Energy transition basics

Energy Transition Familiarity Tracking: Familiarity with energy transition is up 5 pts from 48% to 53% since January

One issue people have been talking about lately is the idea that Canada and the world may be transitioning from its current energy system that depends highly on carbon-based fossil fuels like coal, oil and gas to a lower-carbon energy system.

How familiar are you with the idea of transitioning from its current energy system that depends highly on carbon-based fuels to a lower-carbon energy system?

[asked of all respondents; n=2,000]

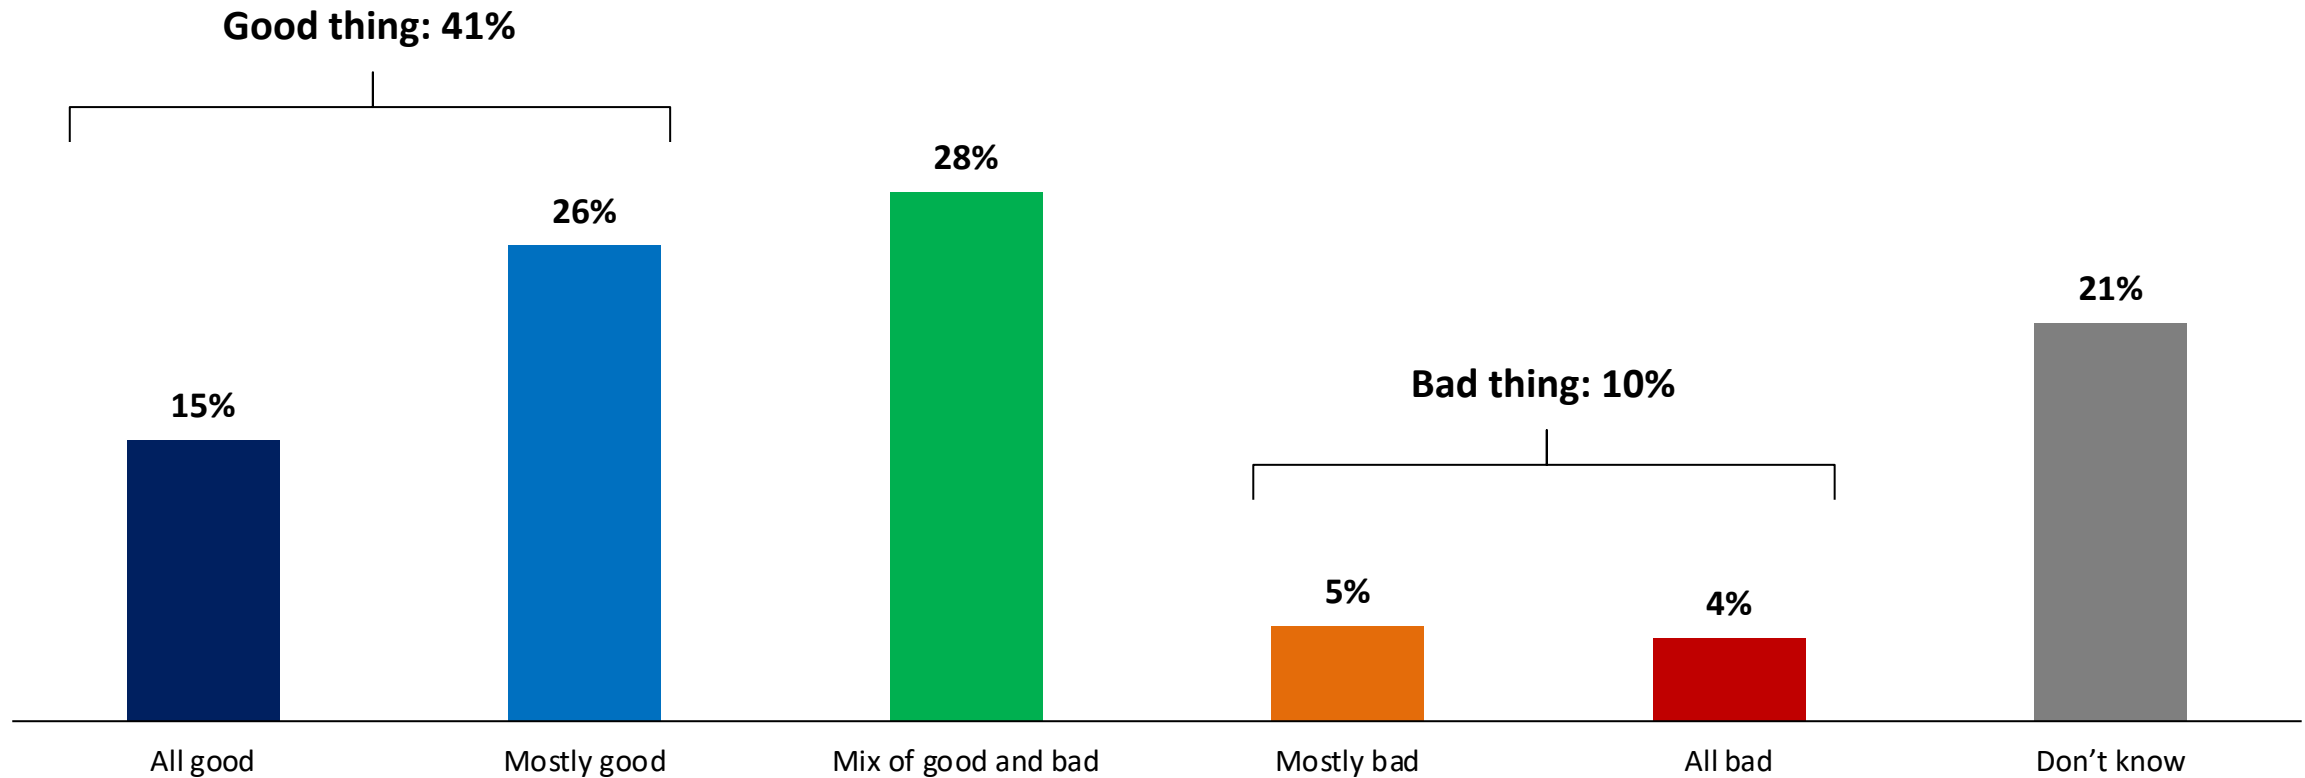

- I understand the details and can explain them to others
- I am familiar with the idea of an energy transition but cannot explain it to others
- I have heard of the idea of an energy transition but I don't know the details
- I have not heard about the idea of an energy transition before this survey
- Don't know

Impression of Energy Transition: 2-in-5 (41%) say energy transition sounds like a good thing while only 10% say it sounds like a bad thing

From what you know or based on your first impression, does energy transition sound like a good thing or a bad thing?

[asked of all respondents; n=2,000]

Energy Transition Impact: Canadians are divided over the impact of the energy transition on their household finances

From what you know or based on your first impression, what impact do you expect the energy transition to have on your household financial situation?
[asked of all respondents; n=2,000]

Electrification Pricing: Overall, net support for a bill increase is split; highest support for a marginal increase of 1%

To implement the energy transition, electricity prices will have to rise to pay to expand the electricity grid with non-emitting generation. You might be able to offset some of these costs by reducing the amount of automotive fuel or home heating fuel you currently purchase. The more we pay in electricity rates, the quicker we can implement the energy transition. Do you support or oppose investments to enable electrification, if in addition to routine increases, your electricity bill will grow by:
[asked of all respondents; n=2,000]

Energy Transition Attitudes Tracking: Transition-skeptic narrative has gained 11 points in 18 months

Based on what you know about an energy transition, which of the following statements is closest to your point of view?

[asked of all respondents; n=2,000]

- Government policies to accelerate the transition away from oil and gas show Canada is a leader on climate change and help make the world better for future generations.
- Government policies to accelerate the transition away from oil and gas risk increasing the cost of living and losing jobs in Canada, and aren't likely to have a significant impact on climate change.

Vote by Riding Segments

In Canadian elections, we count seats, not votes. To understand the race to secure a majority of seats, we have grouped the results in seat clusters based on the closeness of the 2019 results. The UCP hold a strong lead in 34 “Safe UCP” seats. The NDP should hold all the 15 “UCP Losses”. The NDP currently hold an 8-point lead in Swing ridings and could win all 16 2019 “Swing” seats. The election will depend on the 22 “UCP Solid” seats. 14 are in Calgary, 5 on Edmonton’s outskirts and 3 are rural.

Summary

01

Public momentum in favour of action on climate change has been plateaued for most of the last decade. People are not denying the problem, but there are some signs of skepticism towards climate leadership. And willingness to pay is in play.

02

Public opinion is not a fundamental problem when it comes to building. When we measure reaction to real projects, the most frequent response is support. When you add those who don't like the projects but feel they are necessary, year after year majorities give permission. But that permission cannot be taken for granted. It must be earned.

03

Public opinion on regulatory outcomes makes a big difference in whether people are willing to pay more for the energy transition. People who agree the process is transparent, accountable, and protects consumers are typically twice as willing to pay more for transition than those who disagree.
